

2km . 1h30 - 2h

Our starting point is Gare do Oriente. The intermodal station of Lisbon is a jewel of the Portuguese rail network. The station is the home of 11 public art pieces made of ceramic tiles by Abdoulaye Konaté, António Segui, Arthur Boy, Erró, Hundertwasser, Raza, Sean Scully, Yayoi Kusama, Zao Wou-Ki, Joaquim Rodrigo and an impressive bronze sculpture by Madalena Abakanowicz (1A). Leave towards Vasco da Gama shopping centre and look back to the station. The iron and glass cover is a masterpiece of the Catalan architect Santiago Calatrava (1). Cross the mall into Alameda dos Oceanos and take a few minutes on the first floor to enjoy the Portuguese pavement designed by Rigo. (14) The Water Ways printed in the stone spread through the Alameda where the sea waves are replicated by the Water Volcanoes, a piece by Wet Design/ Risco (4). Get inspired by the Tagus river and leave by the Sun Gate. In front of you the Sun Man statue by Jorge Vieira (3) raises from the floor, signaling the universal knowledge path inherited by EXPO'98. Take your right and admire the Portugal Pavilion (5). A small detour under the suspended roof is mandatory to contemplate the elegance and lightness of this architecture and engineering masterpiece by Siza Vieira. Find Rossio dos Olivais (8) with the water mirror cutting through the flags of the participating countries at the International Exhibition of 1998. By their side a mysterious iron figure, the "Rizoma" by Antony Gormley, (7) symbol the union among men. Follow the flow to the river walk by Tágides Walkway and admire MEO Arena (12), the biggest venue in Portugal and a landmark of EXPO'98 with its inverted caravel shape. Having the opportunity to attend a show inside don't miss the wood ceiling by Regino Cruz. At Tágides Lake, designed and built by João Cutileiro, (10) one can admire the Singing of the Mermaids, the temptation of the sailors, in beautiful marble statues. Build your own music at the Music Garden (11). Finally, enjoy the beauty of the Tagus river, the cosmopolitan atmosphere of Nations Park and the unforgettable light of Lisbon.

Follow the 2km course up to item 3 and walk Towards the Tagus river through Rossio dos Olivais (8). Find the water mirror cutting through the flags of the participating countries at the International Exhibition of 1998. Observe the Large Sea waves on the Portuguese pavement by Fernando Conduto (6). On the right side, a mysterious iron figure, the "Rizoma" by Antony Gormley, (7) symbol the union among men. Walk by Portuguese Quay, in front of Olivais Dock. Admire the shape of Portugal Pavilion (5) and the elegance and lightness of the suspended roof, an architecture and engineering masterpiece by Siza Vieira. A few meters ahead take a peek through the "Hours of Lead" by Rui Chafes (15). A small detour is advised to learn about the Science Pavilion, signed by architect Carrilho da Graça (17). Get closer the Oceanário (19), one of the large public aquariums in Europe and certainly the most beautiful. The Tagus river enhances the drawings on the traditional Portuguese pavement with Sea Monsters by Pedro Proença (18) and Pavement from Portuguese Sea by Xana (16). Enter the Water Gardens (23) and enjoy several works from Fernanda Fragateiro and relax on the Wave Garden (25), also from the same artist. Going north, one may walk on the water front or catch the cable car and enjoy the 180 degrees view of Nations Park. If you choose to walk, the next step is Tágides Walkway. Don't forget to admire MEO Arena (12), the biggest venue in Portugal and a landmark of EXPO'98 with its inverted caravel shape. Having the opportunity to attend a show inside don't miss the wood ceiling by Regino Cruz. At Tágides Lake, designed and built by João Cutileiro (10), one can find the Tagus Nymphs, mythical figures that inspired Luís de Camões to write the epic masterpiece "Os Lusíadas". Build your own music at the Music Garden (11). Enjoy the ride by the river and visit the five blocks from Garcia d'Orta Gardens (26). The scientist and botanist collected species from the five continents, where the Portuguese caravels sailed. Further North, the majestic Vasco da Gama Tower (27) symbolizes the starting point of the Portuguese discoveries. Take a pause at Esplanado terrace. A local farmers market runs every Saturday morning in this area. Coming back by D. João II Avenue pay attention to every corner, every building. Nations Park is an open gallery made of statues, tiles and wall-painting by dozens of artists from Portugal and abroad. This permanent exhibition lives together with the traces of architects and engineers. The EXPO'98 interpretation centre is open for visitors at Portugal Pavilion (5). Finally, enjoy the beauty of the Tagus river, the cosmopolitan atmosphere of Nations Park and the unforgettable light of Lisbon.
